IRVINE, Calif., Nov. 30 /PRNewswire/ -- William Salesky, President/Co-CEO of Sherlock Healthy Homes Inc., (SHH), one of the nation's leading residential and commercial indoor environmental service companies, today announced the opening of its Northern California operation with offices in San Francisco.

According to Salesky, "Many clients have asked us to expand into Northern California with the same high level of service and professionalism that we provide our Southern California customers. To lead the expansion, we have selected Mark Simkins as Director of Business Development. Mark is a veteran of the inspection and restoration industry and highly respected by industry colleagues. Mark's proven abilities will provide Sherlock clients with top flight customer service. Through Mark's leadership we anticipate a welcome reception in Northern California."

Mark Simkins said, "We all live and work in enclosed buildings. Sometimes unwanted moisture intrusions can occur, often by unseen events relating to building maintenance, weather, or construction. Such events create excessive moisture that frequently results in unhealthy conditions for inhabitants. Sherlock Healthy Homes are recognized experts in detecting moisture having advanced inspection electronics combined with their proven visual inspection and mold sampling protocols. As an advocate of healthy living, at home as well as in the workplace, I am proud to be associated with Sherlock Healthy Homes."

Nationally-known former CBS Television Consumer Advocate Judd McIlvain has endorsed Sherlock Healthy Homes and has made Sherlock a part of his "Troubleshooter Team." Mr. McIlvain said, "Sherlock has done a superb job for consumers and businesses in Southern California. Now homeowners and commercial operators in Northern California will have the same outstanding indoor environmental service company to address their needs."

Sherlock provides a wide range of inspection and evaluation services including mold, allergen, and bacteria testing. Sherlock Healthy Homes services the residential market, direct to Homeowners. The Sherlock Commercial Group provides indoor environmental services to commercial properties including Apartment Buildings, Office Complexes, Restaurants, Commercial Property and Community Associations. Frequently, finding and determining the source of water intrusion or leakage into a building is requested by the property owner or manager. Sherlock uses the latest in electronic instrumentation, including thermal imaging to provide the highest level of customer service.

It is Sherlock's mission to assist property owners and residents to assure their properties are healthy for inhabitants. "Clearly there is a connection between indoor allergens and health," Salesky said, "and we know that certain molds present potentially dangerous living environments for inhabitants, especially to the young, elderly, or anyone with asthma, allergies or others with breathing issues."

With expansion into Northern California, Sherlock serves seven counties surrounding the greater San Francisco Bay Area and all counties in Southern California. Sherlock's corporate offices are located in Irvine, CA. For more information, visit their websites, www.sherlockhealthyhomes.com, www.sherlockcommercial.com or call (800) 590-6653.
